

MEA Reasons Against Parochiaid Are Told

Arnold J. Korpel, Upper Peninsula representative of the Michigan Education Association, told the John A. Lemmer Monday evening of the forces at work in the state's parochial contest and of the number enrolled in non-public schools—315,000.

The MEA is the state's largest organization of teachers and school administrators.

Parochial is the name given to a legislative proposal that the state give financial aid to the elementary and secondary parochial (church) schools of the state, as it gives aid to the private colleges.

Korpel said that there are about 2,400,000 school age children in the elementary and secondary schools of Michigan, of which about 315,000 are attending non-public schools.

This is about 14 per cent of every 7 children.

Church Schools

Of the children attending non-public schools, more than 99 per cent are in religiously affiliated schools with over 8 of 10 children now attending non-public schools in Roman Catholic schools.

State aid to non-public schools includes free busing, speech correction, health services, visiting teachers, teacher counselors, teacher consultants, remedial reading, crossing about," he said.

"That's up to the governor,"

"I don't know anything about discrimination and provide nondiscriminatory education. Their reason for being would dramatically decrease; otherwise tax monies will aid in further establishing societal divisions."

Citing aid to non-public schools in England, France, Scotland, Belgium, The Netherlands and several provinces in Canada, Korpel quoted studies that there is "little chance of a parochial school being penalized for not maintaining a certain level of quality. Once public funds start coming, there is little likelihood of their being cut off . . . The campaign to tap public tax funds for non-public schools, it is evident, is determined, well organized and nationwide.

"But that was a question of economics," he said. "Whether we should do it for the fares involved. Since the rate for automobiles was cut Jan. 1 from $3.75 to $1.50 business (on the bus) has fallen off to nearly nothing."

Brown said there had been "some hollering about no legislative passes."

Since former Gov. G. Mennen Williams made the first crossing of the new bridge and was required to pay, there are no more passes, he said.

This includes legislators and state employees, Brown said.

Michigan is made up of two peninsulas—the slender Upper Peninsula and the mitten-shaped Lower Peninsula.

"Some advocates say parochial would save money. It would not if the objective is equal support for parochial schools; it would be more expensive."

"Competition may improve a product or a service, but in the case of schools tax dollars are limited and the opposite may occur."

"We've heard that if the tax money isn't given the 315,000 students may enroll in public schools. This is unlikely at any one time, and it would be cheaper than having multiple systems."

Total of the low bids for the seven projects was $1,630,005.

No major new road construction was included and none of the projects bid are in Delta, Schoolcraft or Menominee counties.

Bacco was the low bidder on two projects, quoting $57,337 for storm sewer construction at two locations on M-95 in Kingsford and Iron Mountain and $635,053 on 2.08 miles of grading and drainage structures and 44 feet of aggregate surface course on County Rd. 480 east of Negaunee in Marquette County.

The Educational Services Act of 1969, the primary parochial aid bill, was introduced Mar. 5. Co-sponsors include Rep. Dominic Jacobetti (D-Negaunee). It would provide payments of half the average amount of state aid for each pupil in a non-public school except that in inner cities and culturally, economically and教育ally deprived areas the amount would be 100 per cent.

Governor Milliken has said that he is in sympathy with the problems of the parochial schools, but that he will not approve any bill which is not funded and which does not meet constitutional tests.

In his conclusions, Korpel stated: "Non-public schools by their very nature are established to foster the goals of specific groups within the society. Students are enrolled in these programs for the purpose of separation from the mass of people in order to produce some qualities of personality which it is believed are important and will differentiate these students from other members of society."

Special Schools

"Selectivity and segregation in some degree is a necessary condition for the existence of private and parochial schools. If public money is used to support these schools these goals must diminish since the schools will be required to admit without discrimination and provide nondiscriminatory education.

Their reason for being would dramatically decrease; otherwise tax monies will aid in further establishing societal divisions."

MRS. ROBERT HAM of Escanaba, housewife, mother, teacher and president of the Escanaba Public Library Board, also finds time to collect early-day bottles. She holds a cobalt blue "Harden Hand Grenade" fire extinguisher bottle that is designed, when thrown and broken, to extinguish flames. Many such bottles were kept in homes, mills and stores 50 or more years ago. (Daily Press Photo)

Bottle Lore, Lure Told By Collector

How bottles, their manufacture and their use have helped shape history and human events was told to the Delta County Historical Society by Mrs. Robert Ham, Escanaba wasn't a doctor) roamed across the land.

"Ladies on their way to meetings to fight the demon rum would take a wine glass on glass made in the American colonies, along with the tariff on tea, were elements in the discontent that led to the War of Independence.

And the widespread distribution of patent medicines made possible by the mass production of bottles brought pure food and drug legislation to protect the public against sometimes lethal nostrums.

Land Of Liberty

The first glass house or manufactury in America was at Jamestown, Va., in 1608—12 years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock, said Mrs. Ham, who is a member of the American Bottle Collectors Association. The English abandoned Jamestown after two settlement efforts, however, but one of the primary objectives was to produce glass for the English homeland.

"Although it may sound corny today, patriotism ran high in the hearts of Americans after the War of Independence, and the American eagle and American shield appeared everywhere—including the many historical flasks that were produced. More than 200 of these flasks carry the American eagle and more than 100 the figure of George Washington," she reported.

Some of these early day flasks were found by skin divers at the bottom of Fayette harbor and are in the State Park Museum, she added.

Tonic For America

Glass containers had been blown by glassmakers for many centuries before the use of compressed air and molds brought mass production of bottles to the American scene.

Blown-in-the-mold bottles were the first major development in the glass industry since the time of Christ, she added.

Glass in green, brown, amber and other natural colors created by the materials of which glass is made prevailed until the 1880's when "clear glass" was discovered—or rather a method of "decoloring" the glass was found. This brought glass into even greater favor because contents of containers such as the famous Mason jar could be seen.

Syrups That Soothed

The inexpensive glass bottle brought the opportunity for tonic, medicine and bitters producers to find a national market. A bottle of whisky plus a few herbs became, for instance, Dr. Hostetter's bitters that avoided the tax on whisky. Railroad carloads of Hostetter's product (he really could be seen).

Treatment Center For Alcoholics

LANSING (AP) — Michigan would use a section of Muskegon's North Shore Hospital for treatment of alcoholics under terms of a bill introduced Wednesday by Sen. Oscar Bouwsma, R-Muskegon.

If the proposal is adopted and a contract negotiated "it would be of great benefit, not only to alcoholics themselves, but to the community as a whole," Bouwsma said.

Educator Asks Plans For 'All Handicapped'

Dr. Marvin A. Wirtz, head of the Department of Special Education at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, told the Special Education committee of the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School District this week there is a great need to plan for "all handicapped children."

Dr. Wirtz, who is chairman of the Michigan Committee on Certification of handicapped children, said a "good base" exists in this area in special education upon which a comprehensive program can be built and that "it is very exciting to plan new programs."

A program here, he said, should include a complete diagnostic clinic located in Intermediate District facilities as well as a comprehensive program of education which would include regular classroom instruction, special classrooms and residential centers.

Economic Benefit

Besides being "humanitarian," Dr. Wirtz pointed out that special education programs are economically beneficial.

It takes about $500 per year to educate a "normal" child, he said, against about $1,000 per year to educate a mentally handicapped child. But, he continued, to "institutionalize" a child for one year would cost about $3,000.

If a person were placed in an institution for 50 years, Dr. Wirtz continued, the cost could be about $150,000.

On the other hand, he added, if a child can attain sheltered employment and earns "poverty level" wages of $3,000 per year for 45 years, this would yield a plus of $135,000.

Subtracting the $12,000 it costs for education, Dr. Wirtz said the net benefit would run to $273,000.

The Intermediate District, Dr. Wirtz said, is an effort to "centralize programs which would be too expensive to run on a decent basis" in smaller, individual school districts.

A comprehensive diagnosis, Dr. Wirtz said, should include all educational information, psychological evaluation, social and developmental histories, and hearing, speech and medical evaluations.

Regular Classes

In the comprehensive program, he said, some handicapped children should remain in the regular classroom and supportive services (such as itinerant personnel) used to help the child adjust to the classroom setting.

Other handicapped children who cannot cope with the regular classroom should be placed in special classrooms and be integrated into certain activities and classes. Some children cannot cope in either the regular or special class for different reasons and therefore need to be placed in the residential setting.

MARQUETTE — Black Americans are rejecting the "magnolia myth image" of themselves and adopting a new pride in race, according to one of the nation's pioneer civil rights leaders.

James Farmer, who founded the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) in 1942, told a large audience in the Northern Michigan University physical education building that black attitudes have undergone a dramatic change as a result of the Negro's search for identity. The new attitude, he said, is: "Black is beautiful. It's wonderful to be black."

The grandson of a slave, Farmer received a standing ovation at the conclusion of his lecture on "The Negro in America: Retrospect and Prospect." It was presented as part of the university's concert-lecture series.

Named Assistant Secretary

Farmer, who has been appointed assistant secretary of health, education and welfare by President Nixon, will assume his new duties on April 1. Meanwhile, he said "I am speaking as a private citizen."

Farmer traced racial attitudes from the "simplistic view of dispersal of blacks (integration)" as a desirable state to the current extreme view of complete separation of races that is being advocated by some blacks. He compared this with the swinging of a pendulum, "and what usually happens in this historic process is that the pendulum comes to rest in the middle."

"Color Blind Era"

The speaker described the evolution from the "color blind era" to the current era marked by the emergence of new pride.

In the color blind era, the black American tried to forget he was black, Farmer said.

"He was to be color blind and hoped that the nation would be color blind, too. But we are beginning to realize that color blindness does not work because the nation is not color blind."

Farmer said blacks and whites both have been conditioned, programmed and brainwashed by racism in the nation's culture and by the belief that blacks are inferior.

Children, he said, are conditioned in subtle ways to accept racist convictions regarding blacks. "Most textbooks either ignore black people or present the stereotyped magnolia myth image of the black. There is no mention in these textbooks of the slave revolts. Instead, the slaves are pictured as happy workers. How can a black child reading these myths in textbooks develop any self esteem?"

Farmer charged every other instrument in the culture has been similarly guilty, including Hollywood, which portrayed blacks as clowns, petty criminals or childlike oafs. "The viewer could not respect this person because he didn't merit respect," Farmer said.

"But black Americans developed a new sense of pride as new nations emerged in Africa," he stated. "Black people began asserting their blackness. Only a few years ago a black man would have been insulted if he were called black. Now he's proud of his blackness."

"What the civil rights movement did was to appeal to the nation's conscience, but the changes haven't been substantive enough," Farmer said. "Consequently, the black American movement now stresses new pride in race and an effort to exert political and economic pressure to obtain equality."

"The black community couldn't care less about being loved," Farmer said. "It is far more concerned about being equal."

Farmer said he still believes in a "color blind day" but said that day is far in the future.

U.P. Waits For Word On Time Zone Change

By The Associated Press

Michigan's Upper Peninsula can get ready to move back officially into the Eastern Standard Time Zone, if the U.S. Department of Transportation follows the wishes of the majority, as it has indicated it would.

Time long has been a matter for argument in the Upper Peninsula, and it likely is to continue as such—whatever the official decision.

A howl went up last year when the Department of Transportation decreed the entire Upper Peninsula fell within the Central Standard Time Zone. So, the department decided to take a vote—among the boards of supervisors in the 15 counties above the Straits of Mackinac.

It indicated the majority would rule in its final decision and that this would come before April 27.

13 In Favor

Thirteen boards of supervisors voted for Eastern Standard Time, with those in Gogebic, Ironwood (Ironwood) favoring Central Standard, and Keweenaw not voting.

Most of the votes were unanimous, but Dickinson County supervisors split 12-3 and those in Menominee County 11-4 while Gogebic went 13-2 for what under present law would be impossible: Central Standard in winter and Central Standard in summer.

Three counties, with the Department of Transportation looking the other way, so to speak, haven't paid any attention to the Central Time order anyway.

They are Chippewa, Luce and Mackinac at the eastern end of the peninsula, which stretches more than 300 miles from Sault Ste. Marie in the east to Ironwood in the west.

Defeated DST

Before Congress adopted the Uniform Time Act, giving the Transportation Department authority to set zones and specifying all states—except those voting to exempt themselves—should be on Daylight Saving Time.

Ontonagon County, which adjoins Gogebic and in which many Ironwood residents are employed, voted to go for Eastern Time.

Of course, Eastern Standard would be the legal time, as Central now is under the Department of Transportation zoning of the UP.

Kiwanis-sponsored Boy Scout Troop 444 had 25 boys earn Polar Bear patches last weekend in a 40-hour outing west of Fuller Park in which they slept out two nights, cooked out, hiked, tracked and stalked game and performed other scout activities. Protestant interfaith services were conducted by Daniel Livermore and Mark Seymour and Catholic interfaith services by Bob Courchaine and Jim Kroll. David Livermore planned the outing and Scoutmaster William Huebler headed the five adults.

Tax Reform Chance

Former Secretary of the Treasury Joseph W. Barr thinks that there is a chance of a tax-payers' revolt in the United States unless there is a reform of our tax system. He tells about it in the current edition of the Saturday Review, which is devoted to taxes.

Taxes are only tolerable when heavy, he suggests, if people think that they are fair. Americans currently don't think that the nation's tax system is fair and the middle class — our biggest taxpaying class — is most angry about its lot.

Middle class families and individuals in the $7,000 to $20,000 income bracket whose tax payments are now generally based on the full ordinary tax rates and who pay over half of our individual (non-corporate) income taxes are most likely to revolt against our tax system, says Barr.

These people are outraged when they learn of extreme cases like the 155 individuals in 1967 who had adjusted gross incomes of more than $200,000 but paid no federal income taxes at all. Of this number 21 had incomes of more than a million dollars on which they paid no taxes.

The middle class taxpayer, who can avail himself of no such tax shelter, is pressuring for equal treatment. Congress is under increasing pressures to make the nontaxpaying rich pay something and this seems a likely outcome of the current tax reform effort, although it won't be easy.

Here are the ways in which taxes are avoided by big income people:

1. Half of profits from sale of capital assets — stocks, bonds, buildings, etc. — held for more than 6 months is not counted as income; and the rest of such capital gains are not taxed at more than 25 per cent.

2. Interest on state and local government bonds is not counted as income at all and is entirely tax-exempt.

3. Unlimited charitable deductions.

4. Depletion allowances in petroleum ventures.

5. Farm losses.

6. Borrowing large sums of money and using the interest deductions against taxable income, leaving tax-exempt income to ride free.

Barr also cites a new tax dodge in which a builder using borrowed money and a super-fast rate of depreciation pays the mortgage, interest, maintenance and some of the depreciation from rents. The building can be paying its way but still showing under this plan a tax loss which can be used against salary, dividend and other income.

The unlimited charitable contribution can be used by the very rich as a tax dodge. The limit is 30 per cent, but 40 years ago Congress passed a law permitting anyone who gives away 90 per cent of their income for a period of 5 years to be excused from paying income taxes so long as he continued this pattern of giving.

Under this law a person could give away an income of $10 million a year and have had $10 million to spend with no taxes to pay and have wound up the year with stocks worth $205 million.

The best known villain of tax ducking is the oil depletion allowance, but it ranks only fifth in the order of tax advantages.

When Congress sets out to effect greater equity between income and taxpaying it is going to run into some very strong opposition. The tax protections offered in this country grew out of efforts to aid the general economy in many instances. The investment community wants low capital gains taxation as a means of generating investment capital that this nation and the world clearly need. "Liberalize it!" is the cry.

Mayors and governors want their government bonds tax exempt so they can raise money for public works at advantageous interest rates. And so it goes.

Most favored remedy and most likely prospect is a law to require everyone to pay a minimum federal income tax no matter how they get their income. This would be at rates, says Barr, roughly one-half of the current rates, which range from 14 to 70 per cent. In addition, no one would pay more than half of their total income in federal taxes.

The government needs increasing taxes, as we tolerate its proliferation of services, but even more it needs the confidence of its people that it is not cheating some of them.

Catnip Caper

Catnip is the latest discovery of those who search for chemical kicks seems never-ending.

Unlike dried banana peels, inhaled or ingested catnip does appear to have some sort of intoxicating or hallucinogenic effect. The human cool cats who use it still aren't as smart as the original catnip fanciers, however.

Cats have so arranged the order of the universe that people exist to take care of them. Those young people who start down the psychedelic road, whether it is with catnip, glue-sniffing, morning glory seeds, marijuana, LSD or anything else, may eventually turn themselves into animals, but nobody is going to want them, even as house pets.

EVERYTHING IS up to date in booming Johannesburg, Africa's financial capital which could be a carbon copy of an American city. Autos crowding the bustling streets and new buildings sprouting like mushrooms after a rain reflect the good life of the white one-fifth of South Africa's population. Left out are the black masses of the Bantu townships clustering around the gleaming city centers.

Apartheid Is Segregation In South African Style

By ROBERT COCHNAR

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA (NEA)—It is, the visitor can easily see, a country of great promise. From the soft, grassy veldt of Kruger National Park to the New York-like tempo of downtown Johannesburg, it is a beautiful country.

It has all that any nation could hope to have: wealth; a hardy, efficient people; a booming economy; the technology, pleasures and fancies of a contemporary civilization.

And most outsiders agree, it is doomed.

For in South Africa, the bounty is freely distributed to the one-fifth of its nearly 19 million people who had the luck to be born white; the majority receives only that which the minority chooses to give it.

This visitor's first glimpse of this strange country occupying the southernmost part of the African continent was at sunrise, on a Sunday morning.

Engage a white South African in idle conversation and the talk inevitably moves to Apartheid, the government's program of separate development of the races.

The answers are given, quickly, carefully.

"Look around. You can see, of course, that our Africans are happy. They know their place."

"You've seen what happens when you give the blacks equality. Detroit, Watts, Harlem, riots, death. We are not going to allow that to happen here."

"We are a small minority. Our roots in South Africa grow deep. We have no place to go. What would you do? Just what would you do?"

The Africans simply can't cope with a white, Christian, Western civilization. They are a simple people who need to be guided. And it is our responsibility to guide them."

It suddenly became South Africa when a rickety bus chugged past; the sign on its side read, "Nonwhites Only."

And, later, at the traditional native mine dancing to which all tourists are taken, the schizophrenic personality of the country burst through.

At an open amphitheater, much like a Mexican bull ring, Bantu miners, glistening with the sweat of a mid-morning sun, performed tribal dances. Whites watched from beneath covered bleachers. On the other side of the ring, exposed to the sun, the blacks watched the backs of the performers.

And then to another "tourist attraction," Ndebele Village, near Pretoria, a sort of African Williamsburg where bare-breasted native women posed for pictures and sold

I believe that all of us who were forced to move files, equipment, and personal belongings from the fire are this past weekend would like to extend our sincere thanks and gratitude to everyone who rendered assistance to us.

I was especially impressed by the number of young people who enthusiastically gave of their time and efforts in the evacuation. To all those who continually criticize the youth of our area, I suggest that they look to these incidents as a more accurate reflection of the character of the young people in our locality.

We extend special thanks to them.

mind he identifies himself with his name."

The country is currently enjoying an unprecedented economic boom which guarantees a well-paying job for every white. In fact, the labor shortage in skilled positions is nearly critical.

And since the Bantu are not permitted to work at what the government considers "skilled" jobs, the white is assured of continued, well-paid employment.

Johannesburg has become the financial capital of Africa.

For the whites things could not be better. American firms co-operate with the "local situation." Whites are paid, on the average, six times more than blacks in an equivalent position.

The government, in league with the tough, rigidly conservative Dutch Reformed Church, bans books and magazines. The book of banned books is called "Jacobsen's Index of Objectionable Literature."

Among the publications currently on Jacobsen's list (no reason given) are Playboy, Norman Mailer's "Advertisements for Myself" but not his "The Naked and the Dead," Joseph Heller's "Catch-22" and Oscar Lewis' "Children of Sanchez."

The good life does not include television because, the government says, it is "too expensive" and "immoral." Government critics say it's because it could "spread education to the Bantu."

The good life includes Japanese who are regarded as "honorary whites" (Japan is a major trading partner) but not Chinese, who are Asians and strictly second-class citizens.

The Beatles are banned from the state-controlled radio (because John Lennon once said the group was "more popular than Christ") but rock fans can buy Beatle records in the shops.

And the good life eschews Darwin's Theory of Evolution. The Church, it seems, feels the ape-to-man hypothesis is contrary to Biblical teachings.

But even with the penalties, the good life remains attractive. "We don't plan to give it up without a fight," maintains a white citizen. His fellows agree.

Albert Ramokoka is 32 years old. He lives in Soweto, a Bantu (black only) township on the outskirts of Johannesburg, and for two hours each day he travels to the city and his job.

He is a floor cleaner at a department store and for his 12 hours of work each day he receives about $2.

Ramokoka carries with him a reference book which tells every white who wishes to see it that he is permitted to travel and work within a "white area." But his reference book can be withdrawn at any time and he can be "endorsed out" of Johannesburg.

He would therefore lose his job. Any Bantu without a job can be moved hundreds of miles away, to his "homeland," which very likely he has never seen.

Ramokoka cannot change his job without official permission. He cannot vote. He cannot own property. He cannot visit the Johannesburg Zoo except on Bantu Days, nor can he see a film in a downtown theater.

If he is injured on the street, he cannot be treated until a

Bantu ambulance arrives. Although there are no signs forbidding entry, he knows he cannot eat in most Jo'burg restaurants, nor can he check in at a city hotel.

He is essentially illiterate, having had only four years of education. More would have cost his parents considerable money (education for whites is free).

He is married but has not seen his wife for 18 months. She lives on a Bantu Reserve, many miles away from Jo'burg. There is no provision in her reference book to visit Soweto or Johannesburg.

Ramokoka's situation is not unusual. He is a Bantu, an African, a native, a nonwhite, a Kaffir. It is his lot and he must accept it, as do 12.7 million other people.

Ramokoka's home, Soweto, contains some 750,000 people. Few government-owned houses have electricity and the crime rate is among the highest in the world. Twenty murders on a single weekend are commonplace.

His cousin, George, works in the Jo'burg gold mines for about 12 cents an hour. But he also receives board, lodging and medical treatment. George, from the Reserves, was contracted by a white recruiter to work in the mines for a year.

However, the South African government plans to change all this, it says. The concept is, of course, "separate development" or Apartheid. The plan is to establish eight "Bantustans" or black-ruled states within South Africa where Africans will possess the rights of which they have been deprived in white areas.

Although but one Bantustan, the Transkei, has been established, the government has already promulgated the fiction that black and white states already exist and that Africans in "white areas" are merely "temporary sojourners," foreigners, even, and that naturally they ought not possess the same rights as citizens.

The big hitch in the logic is that the economy rests on the black backs and the enforced cheap labor. (It is a criminal offense not to report for work.)

If Africans were indeed to control their own destinies in their own states, the labor supply in the "white areas" would wither away.

Girl Sent Letter Meant For Another

Dear Ann Landers: I am 20 and engaged to marry a 21-year-old G.I. who is now in Vietnam.

Last week I received a letter from Bruce. It was a love letter which he had written to another girl and had put in the wrong envelope by mistake. From the places he mentioned it is clear that he met this girl during basic training at Fort Dix. He asks her to "keep fresh the memories of those tender moments." I am sure they did more than hold hands.

Should I send Bruce the letter and tell him I'm through? Or should I act like everything is O.K. and settle the matter when he gets home? I am deeply hurt and would like to break the engagement. I don't want to marry a man I can't trust.

What do you advise? —THE GIRL HE LEFT BEHIND

Dear Girl: Give no hint that all is not well. Eventually Bruce will learn of his mistake because the damsel with whom he did his "basic training" undoubtedly received the letter intended for you. Sit back and see how he handles it.

Dear Ann Landers: Do you honestly believe that people who don't want to raise children are psychologically disturbed?

When you say the drive to reproduce is one of the strongest in animals and healthy humans, you are equating the sex drive with the desire to beget offspring. Animals can't separate sex from reproduction, but people can.

There are plenty of people who like sex but don't happen to care for children. This attitude does not always stem from fear of childbirth, laziness, marital discord, or any other kind of hangup. Some women simply don't relish the thought of spending the best years of their lives cooped up in a house with screaming kids from morning till night. What's so nutty about that? —CAREER WOMAN

Dear Woman: You are confused. I suggested professional help for a 23-year-old reader who wanted to adopt children instead of have them because she was terrified of labor pains.

This unfortunate lady has a deep-seated fear from which she should be liberated, for her own sake as well as in fairness to the man she marries.

Her mother and Aunt Tillie probably scared her to death with stories of their agonizing labor. (Those stories get better every year.)

It may surprise you, but not all women view raising a family as spending the best years of their lives cooped up with a house full of screaming kids. Some women find satisfaction, fulfillment and pride in raising a family. And what's so nutty about that?

GM Is Warning School Districts Of Bus Brakes

LANSING (AP) — Michigan school districts are being individually notified by General Motors if they have buses with possibly defective brakes.

Harold Wagner, supervisor of transportation for the State Education Department in Lansing, said he queries GM officials Wednesday after the automotive giant announced it was recalling some 1.1 million cars, buses and trucks for brake defects.

"They advised me they found something which would represent some risk over a period of years," Wagner said, "but no immediate danger appears to exist."

"They advised that no action need to be taken by this office or local school districts until they are individually notified that vehicles need alterations."

Wagner said the notifications are being made by telephone.

Wagner said, meanwhile, that there were "many cases" of brake failures.

Lots Of Records

He could not recall that any resulted in serious accidents.

"We don't keep records, but we know there were a lot of them," Wagner said. "Similar failures occurred in buses supplied by other manufacturers."

"In some cases," he added, "brake failures in some of the older buses were due to poor maintenance."

Wagner and State Police, meanwhile, expect a State Police safety check of all public school buses will help cut the accident rate.

The complete check was reinstated by State Police last year after being dropped for seven years because of lack of funds. This year's annual check of all public school buses started in January and is nearly completed.

Completed Check

Parochial and private schools also are being checked for school bus defects, when they make the request.

Lt. Matt Hrebec, commanding officer of the State Police Selective Enforcement Division, said the checks have been completed in all but the Flint area and some sections in the western part of the state.

"We found quite a few bad brakes, although the brakes are just one of the some 60 items we check," he said. "In some cases, it was a matter of neglect."

"This is the best thing that's come along for a long time," said Sgt. Donald Kalcatara of the State Police Safety and Traffic Division.

"On some buses we found that if you hit the emergency brake — it was dead."

Use Computers

Kalcatara said there were nine school bus fatalities and 552 injuries in 1967.

Figures for 1968 are not yet complete because of later returns from some counties. Kalcatara said he hoped the first year of complete bus checks would show lowering in the accident and death rate.

What do you do now?

A—Pass. If your partner held the ace of diamonds he would have shown it.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding six hearts your partner has bid five diamonds. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

While bidding has improved tremendously in contact so that the good player of today bids better than the greatest experts of the late '20s and early '30s, there has been far less improvement in the play. The expert of those days would play almost as well as the expert of today and far better than the good player.

There have been many improvements in defense with different opening leads and new signals but the standard plays of the old days are still standard plays today.

One of the most unusual standard plays is the unnecessary finesse taken by declarer to give himself an extra entry to dummy. If it fails, declarer has lost both the entry to dummy and my trick.

The unnecessary finesse can be blocked by a second hand high play but it is rare indeed for a defender to recognize it and rise to the occasion.

South reached seven hearts after a typical 1930 bidding sequence. He started quickly by winning the spade lead in dummy and taking a successful trump finesse. Unfortunately, West showed out.

South needed two more entries to dummy if he wanted to make his grand slam. After long thought, he saw that the unnecessary finesse in diamonds would produce them and he led his six of diamonds.

Raymond Balfe, one of the great auction players and a good man at contract, huddled. He knew South had some problem and finally decided that it was the need for an extra entry to dummy.

Once that decision was made, Raymond played his queen of diamonds on South's six-spot and settled South's hash.

Postage To Cost Chevy $1 Million

DETROIT (AP) — The first carburetor, in which a cam which might break is being replaced, three million Chevrolet owners are told that their cars or trucks may have defects go into the mail today, more than three weeks after General Motors announced it was recalling the vehicles.

Chevrolet Division said the letters would go out by certified mail at the rate of 100,000 a day until all the owners are told to take their vehicles to dealers for inspection or service.

At that rate it should take until the middle of May to inform all the owners.

A Chevy spokesman said the parts delay affected the 1,123,000 Chevrolets and the 1.4 million other 1968 and 1969 GM vehicles equipped with the four-barrel Quadra Jet carburetor.

The carburetors will have their fast idle cam replaced with a new model. The old model, the firm said, had broken apart in some cases and could fall into the linkage and jam the accelerator.

GM began turning out the new model cam on February 14 and has been producing them on a three-shift day, seven-day week basis since then.

"We are spreading them out (to dealers) as fast as we can," said one official.

Warn Farmers Of Alfalfa Weevil

EAST LANSING (AP) — Beware of the alfalfa weevil, a pest within the next few years," he said.

Pesticide

"We hope this pest will be held in check by parasites and perhaps new varieties of alfalfa that are resistant to the weevil."

"But for the time being, losses can be minimized by growers who expect, prepare and search for the alfalfa weevil and are prompt in applying control measures when they are needed."

Ruppel said the weevil increase is brought about by the active flights of the adult at the beginning and end of the hot, dry summer months. The female weevil can lay 500 eggs and is able to thrive in Michigan's climate.

Until now, he said, the weevil has had no natural enemies to reduce its numbers.

Fertilized Plants

Some parasites have been effective in reducing alfalfa weevil damage in other states, Ruppel noted, and there is hope they can become equally effective in Michigan.

Sod scientist John Shickluna, meanwhile, cautioned farmers that fertilized plants are more efficient, but indiscreet application of fertilizer is neither good economics nor good soil management.

"Haphazard selection and application of fertilizer may lead to unbalanced fertility conditions that promote the uptake of excessive amounts of some elements," he said, "and too little of others equally important for plant growth."

Subway Locker Is Off Limits

BOSTON (AP) — A man's home is his castle. So is the locker he hires in a subway station and neither may be entered without a warrant, U.S. Judge Frank J. Murray ruled Wednesday.

The ruling was in the case of Richard L. Small, 19, of Somerville, charged with possession of marijuana, seized by a U.S. narcotics agent in a locker Small hired at the Harvard Square subway station.

Judge Murray, granting a motion to suppress evidence of the seizure, said, "The locker may be viewed as an area . . . like a home . . . where a person is constitutionally protected and where he has reasonable expectation of privacy."

House Tacks On Amendment

Mortgage Loan Bill Gets Termination Date

LANSING (AP) — Borrowers may have to pay more for home mortgage or certain business loans under terms of a bill passed 28-6 Wednesday by the state Senate.

The measure, which faces almost certain amendment in the House, would boost the interest rate ceiling on home mortgage, unincorporated business and individual commercial loans from 7 to 9 per cent.

An amendment tacked on just before the final vote requires that the ceiling rate revert to 7 per cent on Jan. 1, 1972.

"It would go back to seven unless the legislation, based on current business conditions at that time would change it again," explained Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, sponsor of the measure.

Drop In Building

Bursley had argued that the ceiling hike was necessary or "you're going to have a drastic drop in building." He cited the 7½ per cent interest banks now charge some customers because of a recent ruling by the federal reserve board in raising the prime interest rate.

Opponents charged the measure would "gouge the little man" and termed even an 8 per cent rate boost "outrageous."

Senators put off action on a measure that prompted Sen. Michael O'Brien, D-Detroit, one of several sponsors, to say:

"If I were chief executive, I would like to have (officials) contact me at least once a month to tell me whether or not a town is burning down."

Crime Patterns

The measure would create "State Internal Security Council," including the governor, lieutenant governor, State Police director, head of the State Department of Military Affairs

Gov. William Milliken starred criticism recently by proposing that $1.6 million be diverted from the State Highway Department to the State Police for road patrols.

Opponents called his suggestion

"a raid" on highway funds. Fleming said his proposal would not stave off Milliken's suggested funding, but "it would prevent it in future years."

The House, meanwhile, moved several bills to position for final action. Those bills would:

— Amend state divorce laws to include provision for divorce "when it appears to the court that both parties have been guilty of conduct which constitutes grounds for a divorce..."

— Remove law enforcement authority from mayors of fourth class cities unless such cities specify otherwise by charter.

— Allow second-class district courts to meet in the county seat, with approval of boards of supervisors.

Release Results

— Allow any peace officer to impound a vehicle owned by a convicted person, who would be responsible for damage during impoundment.

— Allow judges to decide if criminal sentences should be consecutive or concurrent.

— Amend state election laws to require county clerks to make available to "the press and other interested persons" the results of the unofficial tabulations of all elections.

— Amend the liquor control act to require cities, villages or townships to allow or prohibit the sale of liquor by the glass within one year of a referendum decision by voters.

— Standardize provisions of the vehicle code requiring motorists to stop behind school buses taking on or discharging passengers.

Beatle Marries For 2nd Time

LONDON (AP) — Beatle John Lennon married his Japanese mistress, Yoko Ono, in a civil ceremony today in Gibraltar, the Beatles' office announced.

It was the second marriage for both and the second for the Beatles in eight days. Paul McCartney married an American Divorcee, Linda Eastman, in London March 12.

Lennon and Yoko Ono went to Paris Monday and flew to Gibraltar Wednesday night. A representative of Apple, the Beatles' company, said she believed the only two witnesses at the wedding were Peter Brown, personal assistant to the Beatles, and Thomas Nutter, a Savile Row tailor.

Lennon, 28, and Miss Ono, a 34-year-old sculptress, have been living together for months. He said some time ago they would marry as soon as they were free to do so.

"This will probably simplify things," he said, adding that only 113 of the Xavier students live in Ecorse and that the public schools have been providing special services such as speech therapy, nurses and remedial reading to the Catholic school for some time.

Adrian Problem

A spokesman for the public schools in Adrian said the closing of Catholic Central poses a serious problem.

"We have a crowding problem here now," the spokesman said.

The bishop said efforts will be made to hold the number of Catholic school closings this spring to 20, but indicated the figure might rise as high as 50.

Gumbleton said 49,000 students had been diverted from closed catholic schools to public schools in recent years. Nine schools in the archdiocese have closed so far this year.

A total of 398 students are affected by the new two closings — 189 at the Ecorse school and 209 in Adrian.

Russell Blades, Ecorse's public school business manager said the closing there presents no problem.

Capistrano Birds Bring In Tourists

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP) — For a century of springtimes, flocks of square-tailed cliff swallows return here on or about St. Joseph's Day, March 19, to live the summer months under the eaves of the old mission church.

Thousands of tourists are expected in this Southern California valley to watch the nimble brown birds flutter around the churchyard. Even President Nixon may drop by to see them later this week.

The parochial bill now pending in the Legislature would provide an estimated $40 million for secular education in nonpublic schools.

The swallows winter in Argentina, returning north with the warm winds of spring to their hatching grounds. Smith said they're usually very punctual.

Detroit Diocese Closing Schools

DETROIT (AP) — Two more high schools were closed by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit Wednesday in a continuing financial crisis which church officials said could lead to as many as 50 more closings this spring.

Bishop Thomas J. Gumbleton, vicar general of the Detroit archdiocese, said St. Francis Xavier high school in Ecorse and Adrian Catholic Central would be forced to close by the end of the school term.

Bishop Gumbleton said the closings would cost taxpayers an extra $250,000 to support children from the two high schools in public schools.

Although he denied the move was designed to pressure the Legislature to pass a bill to provide state aid to parochial schools, Gumbleton said he felt the lawmakers would see the "reasonableness" of parochial.

Divert 49,000 Students

The bishop said efforts will be made to hold the number of Catholic school closings this spring to 20, but indicated the figure might rise as high as 50.

Tell Young About Drugs, Doctor Advises

Parents should begin to tell their pre-teenage children about drugs and narcotics. Dr. James J. Lightbody, Detroit, president of the Michigan State Medical Society, advocates.

Children in the fifth and sixth grades are not too young to learn about the dangerous effects of drugs" says Dr. Lightbody. He indicates that junior high students should be specifically warned, and "as they grow older the emphasis on caution should be increased." "I feel that too many parents put off drug education too long, and too many depend upon the school to do the entire job."

Dr. Lightbody believes that many parents and teachers do not know how widely harmful marijuana smoking has spread — nor how fast it spreads.

"Young people must be told early and often that LSD (lysergic acid diethylamide) and marijuana, like alcohol, have no medicinal value, but can be very harmful and habit forming. These drugs are called 'hallucinogens' because they do produce hallucinations and distort perception."

Physicians and teachers in talking with junior high and senior high students are asking "Why take a chance with drugs?" Physicians, says Dr. Lightbody, are trying to convince children and young people that marijuana smokers may move on to other harmful drugs and that any fleeting pleasures are not worth the risk of permanent physical and mental deterioration including the possibility of criminal activity.

Most states have set a minimum sentence of two years in prison for conviction for use or possession of marijuana.

Manistique will host the Tenth Annual Upper Peninsula Crafts and Native Industries Exhibition on April 26 with local sponsorship by the Manistique Art Club and the Community School.

The exhibition, which has a theme of "Blue Waters," is organized by the Upper Peninsula Crafts Council. About 100 exhibits from all over the peninsula are expected for the show, according to Paul Harkonen of the Upper Peninsula Commission for Area Progress who met with local sponsors Monday evening.

Art Club

The Art Club is sponsoring a student poster contest to promote the exhibition in the county. The Art Club will also prepare posters announcing the exhibition and distribute them peninsula-wide.

Exhibits of creative crafts and native products are invited for the day-long show to be held in the Manistique High School gymnasium. In connection with the exhibition there will be

The Michigan Council of the Arts will also sponsor an exhibit of Michigan crafts.

Associated with the crafts exhibition will be a showing of painting and other art work by members of the Art Club and area artists, according to Mrs. Harold Dixner, Art Club president.

The student poster contest will have two divisions: elementary and junior high and high school with a $5 prize in each category.

Posters submitted will be displayed throughout the county to promote the exhibition. Entries should be on 14 x 22 poster board or other paper. The deadline is April 14. Contest rules are available at Dixner's Office Supply in Manistique.

Calls For $320,000 Improvement Program

Approve Master Plan For County Airport

A tentative master plan for a $320,000 improvement program at the Schoolcraft County Airport received unanimous approval from the County Board of Supervisors Tuesday night.

The Board also recommended a $50,000 1970 county budget appropriation for the expansion program after hearing a report from city supervisor Norman W. Jahn of the airport committee.

Jahn said the program would involve hard-surfaced extensions of the east-west runway, the north-south taxiing area and runway, a new terminal building and administration area plus landscaping and parking area.

Runway Extension

Breaking down the estimated cost-per-item improvements for the Board, Jahn said a 600 foot east-west runway extension was gauged at $125,000, a 900 foot north-south taxiing area extension, $62,000. Extending the north-south runway 1800 feet was estimated at $57,000.

Also included in the total project figure of $320,000 is a new terminal building, estimated at $57,000, plus $9,000 for an administration area with a black-topped parking lot and landscaping improvements.

The Board also approved a 5-year option to purchase 36-acres adjacent to the north end of the airport, necessary to the expansion plans. The option agreement calls for a $5,000 payment for the acreage with title now held by Vernon Edwards, Rte. 1, Manistique.

It will probably be 1971 before the project is under construction, Jahn said. The major share of the project cost would come from an assortment of federal and state programs.

County Share

The $50,000 budget recommendation is necessary as an "intent" obligation and must be indicated on an application to the Michigan Aeronautics Commission. The application must be filed by April 1, Jahn added.

The $50,000 county share need not represent all cash but may include in-kind contributions, in lieu of money.

In other business: the board took under advisement a request from Sheriff Lloyd Gray that his prisoner meal allowance be raised from 70 cents per meal to 85 cents. Gray was given permission to rent a special machine, used in testing driver license applicants, at $5.00 per month rental.

Posters submitted will be displayed throughout the county to promote the exhibition. Entries should be on 14 x 22 poster board or other paper. The deadline is April 14. Contest rules are available at Dixner's Office Supply in Manistique.

Peninsula Quints Advance In Tourney

By The Associated Press

Three Upper Peninsula schools advanced to the semi-final round of the state high school basketball tournament Wednesday night with victories in quarterfinal games.

Menominee trimmed Oscoda 77-72 in a Class B contest, Houghton nipped a fourth quarter rally by Shepard to come out on the top end of a 50-46 score in Class C and Marquette Bishop Baraga surprised DeTour 79-63 in a Class D clash.

The Maroons, ranked seventh in the final AP poll among Class B schools, got 33 points from Dave Haglund and 24 more from Dewey Bellisle in recording their 15th straight victory of the season. Maynard Crowley paced the Oscoda attack with 23 points while his brother Ed netted 21. Menominee will now meet the number one ranked Class B team, River Rouge, in the semi-finals Friday afternoon at 3:30 at Michigan State's Jenison Fieldhouse.

Houghton led most of the way in its game, but Shepard staged a comeback to move ahead by two points in the fourth quarter before succumbing to U.P. Class C champions. Gary Lange led Houghton in the scoring department with 29 points. Houghton is now pitted against the number two team in Class C, Saginaw St. Stephen, at 7 p.m. Friday in the Lansing Civic Center.

Steve Hampton's 28 points paced Marquette Bishop Baraga in its surprise victory over DeTour. The Royals have a 14-10 record this season compared with a 17-4 mark for DeTour. Bishop Baraga will go against Frankfort at Lansing Everett High School Friday night.

The number one Class A team pulled a rabbit out of the hat and as a result jumped clear to Lansing for the state tournament semifinals Friday.

Ypsilanti overcame a stern challenge from number two ranked East Lansing to take a 78-73 victory. East Lansing led 22-16 at the end of the first quarter and the game was tied 39-39 at half.

East Lansing again pulled ahead by the end of the third quarter 54-53 but Ypsi outscored the Trojans 25-19 in the final stanza.

Substitute Charles Fuller came in for Ypsilanti in the second period when foul trouble plagued some of his teammates. He was hot from the start and sank 21 points for his team's high. East Lansing's Blake Ashdown was high man overall with 22.

Detroit Mumford will be Ypsi's opponent Friday. Mumford downed Detroit Southwestern 51-43 in their quarterfinal match in Ferndale. Mumford led throughout the game and Marvin Taylor and Melvin Carr each hit for 13 points.

In the other Class A games, Detroit Northeastern crushed Mount Clemens 89-69 and Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills beat Flint Northwestern 65-53. The two winners meet each other in the semifinals. Northeastern's Frank Robinson pumped in 35 points to move his team's record to 17-2.

River Rouge, ranked all season as No. 1 in Class B by the AP, overwhelmed Holt 74-38. Bill Kilgore paced the winners with 20 points and 17 rebounds as River Rouge dominated play from the start and led 40-17 at the half.

The game with Orchard Lake West Bloomfield-Bay City All Saints was more evenly matched. But West Bloomfield came from a 31-22 halftime deficit and took a 60-58 lead with 39 seconds left, then got two more points and won 62-60. All Saints' Dick Heintzel topped all scorers with 28 points.

Kalamazoo Hackett and Holland Christian were tied 71-71 at the end of regulation time but Amos Jones hit for six of his total 34 points in overtime to pace Hackett to an 81-72 overtime victory. Holland Christian, which led 41-28 at the half, got 24 points from Dan Brower.

In other Class C games Grosse Pointe St. Paul used a balanced scoring attack to beat Flint St. Michael 68-58, despite St. Michael's 21 points each from Dan Blair and Terry Fagan.

Brooklyn Columbia Central led for three quarters but White Pigeon had a hot fourth quarter and won 53-46. White Pigeon outscored Columbia Central 18-6 in the last period.

Meanwhile, Saginaw St. Stephen's John Couture and Manistee Catholic's Dave Adamczak each flipped in 22 points but St. Stephen took a 74-68 win as it led all the way. Manistee Catholic was on a 20-game winning streak and ended the season with a 20-3 record.

Detroit St. Martin squeaked by Saginaw St. Mary 75-74 in their Class D clash. St. Mary trailed until late in the game when the score was tied 70-70 but St. Martin pulled ahead to stay. Ted Goolsby had 27 and Jim Essian 21 for the winners, while John Looby and John Hansen had 21 and 19 respectively for St. Mary.

Webberville turned back a last quarter threat to hand Mendon a 53-47 loss. Roy McFarland had 20 for the victors.

In the other Class D game Frankfort upped its season record to 18-5 with a 67-59 win over Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart. A tournament surprise, finished with an 8-4 record.

Wings Tie Oakland; Battle For Playoffs

By The Associated Press

It's a goal-by-goal uphill battle for the Detroit Red Wings in their struggle to overtake Toronto for the fourth and final Stanley Cup playoff spot in the National Hockey League's East Division.

The Red Wings rallied for two third period goals Wednesday night to tie the Oakland Seals 4-4 in a contest on the West Coast, to remain two points behind Toronto, who tied St. Louis 1-1.

In other NHL games, Montreal downed Chicago 5-2, Boston edged Pittsburgh 3-2, and New York defeated Minnesota 4-2.

The Red Wings have five regular season games remaining including two against Toronto, plays at Los Angeles tonight.

The Red Wings had come from behind twice to stay in the game.

Oakland's Bill Hicke scored twice but the Detroit production line of Frank Mahovlich, Alex Delvecchio and Gordie Howe was the total Red Wing attack.

Hicke put the Seals ahead on a power play at 13:55 of the first period.

The Red Wings moved ahead 2-1 in the second on a short-handed goal by Dean Prentice and Mahovlich's 45th score of the season.

Oakland came back to take the lead again on consecutive goals by Hicke, Brian Perry, and Carol Duglas.

General Manager Sid Abel of the Wings, subbing for Coach Bill Gadsby, switched goaltenders in the third period, inserting Terry Sawchuk for Roy Edwards.

Sawchuk blanked the Seals in the final 20 minutes while Howe scored his 41st goal of the season and Bruce MacGregor got the tying score on a power play at 15:27.

Boston edged Pittsburgh with Bobby Orr becoming their latest record man but they remained three points back of Montreal in the East race because the Canadiens ripped Chicago. Boston has six games left to play and Montreal five.

Orr scored his 20th goal of the season, matching the record for defensemen set by Detroit's Flash Hollett in 1944. It was the game-winner for the Bruins and pushed Orr's record total of points for the season to 62.

Orr also assisted on Phil Esposito's 45th goal—the 119th point of the season for the record-breaking Bruin center.

The Red Wings have scored 29 goals—15 more than the old NHL record for a team. But they still trail the Canadians.

Jacques Lemaire scored twice for Montreal and Rogatien Vachon kicked out 42 Chicago shots as the Black Hawks sank deeper in the East Division cellar.

The Canadiens shut out Bobby Hull, who was seeking to score a record-equalling 54th goal.

Bobby Rousseau, Ralph Backstrom and Dick Duff scored the other Canadiens' goals while Stan Mikita and Pit Martin clicked for Chicago.

Jean Ratelle assisted on all four New York goals and Rod Gilbert had a goal and three assists as the Rangers tripped Minnesota and opened a five-point bulge over Toronto in the battle for third place in the East. The fifth-place North Stars, hoping to qualify for the West playoffs, remained two points back of idle Philadelphia.

Gilbert, Jim Neilson, Vic Hadfield and Dave Balow where the Ranger scorers while Bill Collins and J.P. Parise countered for Minnesota.

Gary Baburin's 24th goal of the season, scored while he was in mid-air, gave St. Louis its tie with Toronto. St. Bourin lunged over a player and beat goalie Bruce Gamble with less than nine minutes remaining, balancing an early goal by Ron Ellis of the Maple Leafs.

Florida Team After Simpson

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The president of the Orlando Panthers says O.J. Simpson has offered to play for his Continental Football League team for $400,000, and the Panthers think that's a fair price to pay Orange Juice to promote the Sunshine state's favorite beverage.

"O.J. and his agent approached Jim Dunn, the Continental League commissioner, two weeks ago and offered to play for $400,000 if O.J.'s negotiations with the Buffalo Bills fell through," said Elmer Cook, Panthers president.

"We went to the Florida Citrus commission and asked them to put up the money, since it was a natural promotional bit to go along with their slogan—Drink O.J.," Cook explained.

The Citrus Commission seemed quite warm to the proposal, Cook said, figuring that a specimen of manhood like the ex-Southern California running back would do as much to up the sale of orange juice as all the vitamin-C plugs put together.

At present, Simpson is committed to contract negotiations with the Bills of the American Football League, and cannot legally play for any other AFL or National Football League team if he fails to reach a contract with the Bills.

However, there's nothing to stop him from playing for a Continental or Canadian team.

College Choir To Present Concert

Dr. Ernest G. Sullivan, director of the A Capella Choir of Alma College that will sing in Escanaba the evening of March 24, is also chairman of the college's department of music and has been a member of its faculty since 1953.

The choir will be heard at 8 p.m. Monday, March 24, in the auditorium at the Escanaba Area Senior High School.

Three members of the choir are from the Escanaba area: Mike and Tom Olson, son of the Leonard Olsons of Escanaba, and Bryan Bender, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bender Jr., Pine Ridge.

Dr. Sullivan has sung professionally in the Chicago area and throughout the midwest, and for six years before joining the Alma College faculty was a member of the voice faculty of the Chicago Conservatory of Music. He directed various choral groups in Chicago, including the Merchandise Mart Chorus which he organized in 1947.

He holds memberships in the National Association of Teachers of Singing and the Music Educators National Conference and is a director of the Michigan School Vocal Association. He frequently serves as a choral clinician and adjudicator.

In 1959 the Alma Singers, under Dr. Sullivan's direction, was selected by the Defense Department for a singing tour of American military bases in Europe. Dr. Sullivan's Alma College A Capella Choir in 1963 was selected as the broadcast choir of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

Music critics have used words like "justifiably renowned," "miracles of flexibility . . . and faultless execution," "added luster such as these to comment on an already impressive season."

Discrimination Says Hairdresser

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard F. Read has complained to the state Division of Human Rights that the loss of his job as a beauty parlor hairdresser was a case of sex discrimination.

In a petition filed Wednesday by his lawyer, Read said he was fired when the salon was purchased by a woman who told him she did not hire males to dress hair.

Discrimination in employment because of sex is contrary to law.

ALMA COLLEGE CHOIR will sing in Escanaba at the Senior High School auditorium the evening of March 24, directed by Dr. Ernest G. Sullivan. The a capella choir of 53 voices will come to Escanaba from Manistique and will go to Marquette on their eight-day tour of Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois.

Hopes To Avenge Son's Death

Ex-Marine, 42, Defeated In Attempts To Re-Enlist

DETROIT (AP) — Edward Tate, a 42-year-old ex-Marine who took a bullet in the neck on Okinawa and whose Marine son was killed in Vietnam, is fighting mad because the Corps says he's too old to go to war again.

He's made one trip to Vietnam on his own, but he said the military wouldn't even let him up to the front as a war correspondent.

The one-time Marine private first class says he's even thinking about suing the Navy Department to get back into the Marines.

Tate wants to take the place in Vietnam of his son, Lance Cpl. Robert Gerard Tate, killed Sept. 19, 1968, by a Viet Cong bullet while on patrol in Quang Tri Province. But the Navy says he's too old at 42; that 32 is the age limit for those with prior service and 27 otherwise.

Others Over 42

To which the Detroit News pressman replies: "Nuts. They've got a lot of guys in the Corps over 42—why keep 'em, if they can't take 'em. I don't understand what age has to do with my shooting VC. I can shoot VC just as dead at 42 as I could when I was 19."

When Tate's congressman, Rep. Jack McDonald, R-Mich., couldn't budge the Navy on its turn-down of a 42-year-old, Tate got himself some camera equipment and two pistols and paid his own way to Saigon, posing as a free-lance photographer.

Refused Transportation

But Tate says he couldn't get certified as a war correspondent in Saigon "and up into the I Corps areas around the DMZ (demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam) like I wanted, to get in the fighting."

Reportedly refused transportation in military planes or vehicles Tate says he wasn't able to get out of Saigon and was told if he did so he was on his own.

It was there he says he became angry at the U.S. government in general because: "I think my kid was murdered by the Communists, with the indirect aid of the American government."

"It's a crying shame," he said. "They take our kids over there and tie their hands. About what it amounts to is that they can't shoot unless the other guy shoots first."

Black Market

"Nearly every week the newspapers over there have stories about some GI up for trial for shooting a civilian, and about anything a GI does now is against the law. They're told to fight a war, but they won't let them fight. It's not like World War II or any other war I ever heard of."

"The black market in Saigon is a disgrace."

"Everybody seems afraid to do anything for fear of offending the South Vietnamese government," he said.

Tate recalled that "when it started, I wanted to go, to keep Gerry from maybe having to go, because I figured they'd only send one from a family. I knew how to fight, but I was over 36, so the navy said no."

Take His Place

"After my son was killed, I figured maybe if I got to Vietnam I could take his place. I thought maybe I could do some good. I wanted to get up near the DMZ to help stop them coming south. But all I got was madder than ever."

"Gerry wouldn't have enlisted in the corps if he hadn't always heard me talking — bragging, I guess — about it."

"Why don't they let them fight a war or get them the hell out of there. And I can tell you a lot of Marines and soldiers feel the same way."

Tate has another son in service, Eddie Ray; in the Army and stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va. The father said that son, married only last Saturday, has shipping orders to Germany.

"I got a promise from him," the elder Tate said, "he wouldn't put in for Vietnam."

Union Gives Up Health Resort

ELGINORE, Calif. (AP) — A laundry workers' union in Los Angeles is abandoning its 10-year-old health resort, saying fewer than 10 per cent of its 6,000 members, mostly low income Negroes and Mexican-Americans, used it.

An industrial relations study showed that, to many workers, the idea of a luxurious lakeside resort seemed culturally alien.

The study also showed that the members don't like to think of themselves as laundry workers and, thus, weren't anxious to mix socially with their fellow workers.

Spokesmen for the laundry owners said free dental care may be provided the workers instead of the spa 70 miles southeast of Los Angeles.
